

The Orangeburg County Library Seed Exchange is for people of all ages to enjoy and participate in. This program was built with support from the Orangeburg County Library, the Master Gardeners of Orangeburg, Clemson Extension Service, and the Friends of the Orangeburg County Library.

Orangeburg County Library Seed Exchange

Growing our community...
one garden at a time.

JOIN US

It is free to join the Orangeburg County Library if you are a resident of Orangeburg County. You are not required to be a cardholder to participate in the seed exchange program. We encourage participants to return after the harvest and donate seeds from your crop to share with others. We thank you in advance for doing so!

Orangeburg County Library Seed Exchange

The Orangeburg County Library Seed Exchange is a brand new library program that aims to connect our patrons and other members of the community with their agrarian roots. South Carolina has a long and rich history of agricultural excellence, on both the small and large scale. Home gardeners and farmers have been supplying their families and communities with food for centuries. Now you can be a part of this rich history!

How does the SEED EXCHANGE work?

Come to the Library! The Seed Exchange is set up in the atrium of the Main Branch Library at 510 Louis Street. You will find a selection of seeds to choose from...for free! Each seed packet contains enough seeds to get you started. Packets are labeled with instructions for planting, growing, and harvesting. We are limiting each family to 4 packets at this time, but this may change due to availability.

If you have questions

GROWING!

about how to start a garden and grow your flowers and vegetables, the library is a great place to start! We have monthly programs on gardening hosted by the Master Gardeners of Orangeburg and Clemson Extension Service, as well as a wealth of books to assist you. There are plant fact sheets available online at www.clemson.edu/extension/hgic/ along with tips for growing in our Zone 8 gardening area.

Whether you have experience with growing from seed or you are a novice at digging in the dirt, why not take some seeds and take a chance?
