Illuminating the Future

SCLA & SELA Joint Conference 2018
October 31-November 2 • Greenville, SC
Welcome to the 2018 SCLA/SELA Joint Annual Conference! We are excited to once again host a joint South Carolina Library Association and the Southeastern Library Association conference in Greenville. It is an honor and delight that you have chosen to attend what we hope will be a memorable conference.

Our conference theme is “Illuminating the Future!” It was selected in recognition of the pivotal role libraries can and do play in providing our communities, campuses, and schools. Conference Committee Chair Amanda Stone and her team have worked very hard to put together a conference that will inspire and empower you to move forward when you return to your job!

The Conference Committee has created a fantastic schedule of informative and exciting programs that has something for all library employees. This joint conference is a unique opportunity for you to meet, share experiences, learn from, and forge new connections with colleagues from across the Southeast that can last for decades.

A source of ideas and inspiration not to be missed this year is our vendors. You can discover information on products, services, programs, and collections you can use to expand and enrich your library to meet your customers’ needs. Our vendors are willing to share their knowledge and expertise with everyone because they know a front line circulation clerk, reference librarian, or children’s librarian can have an immense impact on a library’s purchasing decisions.

Our hope is that you will enjoy this year’s joint SCLA/SELA conference on a personal and professional level. More importantly for us though, our goal for the conference is that you are inspired by something, carry that vision back to your job, share it with your colleagues, and make things happen at your library that will “Illuminate the Future” for those you serve.

Welcome to the joint conference! SELA is honored to be co-sponsoring this conference with SCLA with the theme of “Illuminating the Future.”

I hope you will take full advantage of your time here to attend as many of the excellent and stimulating conference programs as you can since they address the numerous challenges facing libraries currently and provide a good indication of where our profession is going in the foreseeable future. Libraries have always been quick to adopt new technologies and procedures to meet the challenges of the day and provide the best service possible to our patrons. Since at least the mid-1990’s the pace of change has truly been increasing and libraries and librarians have met the challenges of illuminating the future with great effectiveness even in the face of declining or static budgets and greatly exaggerated claims of being irrelevant in the age of the Internet.

Conferences such as this one are a wonderful opportunity for librarians from all kinds of libraries to get together to explore the latest issues and trends, pick up some new techniques, network with one another and make new contacts, refresh ourselves professionally, and, yes, even have some fun attending various programs and functions. I would like to invite you to join (or rejoin) SELA, your regional library association, that has been serving library and information professionals since 1920.

I hope after “illuminating your future” here in Greenville that you will then be able to leave the joint conference and, to quote the well-known song, “let your little light shine.”

Keynote Speakers

First General Session
Wednesday, October 31

Richard Moniz, MA (History), MLIS, EdD served as Director of Library Services at Johnson & Wales University's Charlotte campus 2004-2018 and is now Head Librarian at Horry Georgetown Technical College with oversight of its 3 campus libraries. He has also been an instructor for the University of North Carolina at Greensboro's LIS program since 2007. He is actively engaged in the profession through facilitating and co-facilitating workshops, talks, and keynote addresses associated with various topics surrounding librarianship. He has held a number of committee and board responsibilities within ALA LLAMA, ACRL CLS, and Metrolina Library Association and is always interested in learning from others in the field.

Jo Henry, MLIS, MPA, serves as Librarian with the Charlotte Mecklenburg Library. Previously, she was the Information Services Librarian at South Piedmont Community College. In addition to co-facilitating workshops, she has presented at the ALA Annual Conference, North Carolina Library Association Conference, and the Metrolina Library Association Conference.

Joe Eshleman received his Master of Library and Information Science degree from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro in 2007. He was the Instruction Librarian at Johnson & Wales University Library–Charlotte from 2008-2015. Currently, he is a librarian at Central Piedmont Community College. He has presented on numerous occasions, including at the American Library Association Conference, the Lilly Conference on College and University Teaching, the Teaching Professor Technology Conference, and the First National Personal Librarian and First Year Experience Library Conference.

Second General Session & Luncheon
Thursday, November 1

R. David Lankes is a professor and the director of the University of South Carolina's School of Library and Information Science. Lankes has always been interested in combining theory and practice to create active research projects that make a difference. His work has been funded by organizations such as The MacArthur Foundation, The Institute for Library and Museum Services, NASA, The U.S. Department of Education, The U.S. Department of Defense, The National Science Foundation, The U.S. State Department, and The American Library Association. Lankes is a passionate advocate for libraries and their essential role in today's society earning him the American Library Association's Ken Haycock Award for Promoting Librarianship in 2016. He also seeks to understand how information approaches and technologies can be used to transform industries. In this capacity, he has served on advisory boards and study teams in the fields of libraries, telecommunications, education, and transportation including at the National Academies. He has been a visiting fellow at the National Library of Canada, The Harvard School of Education, and was the first fellow of ALA's.

Third General Session & Luncheon
Friday, November 2

Richard E. Ashby Jr. obtained his BA from the New York Institute of Technology and his MLIS degree from Queens College in New York. As a resident of Philadelphia, Ashby started an afterschool program to help the neighborhood youth called LiteracyNation. Under his leadership, Ashby later formed his afterschool program into LiteracyNation Inc., a non-profit organization that gives away hundreds of new and gently used books through community outreach. During the last five years as the Yeadon Public Library director, Ashby developed Café 3, a program that distributes approximately 250 lunches per week to children. In 2014, the Black Caucus of the American Library Association presented him with the Librarian of the Year Award, and in 2016, he received the Movers and Shakers Award. He serves his community spiritually as the co-pastor of Church of Christian Fellowship. One of his favorite sayings is “Our programming is diverse [enough] to meet all of the changes public libraries are undergoing—with literacy and justice for all.”

Pre-Conference Sessions
Wednesday, October 31 • 9 a.m. - 12 p.m.

The Light Bulb Moment: Services to Entrepreneurs of All Ages with Jan Comfort & Meredith Futral
Location: Laurens

The light bulb has long been a symbol for a great idea. Indeed, the words “light bulb moment” are often used to describe that very instant frozen in time when a person has a moment of clarity, or has dreamed up a fantastic new invention. But what do you do with an idea? How do you nurture it? Join us for the Light Bulb Moment Pre-Conference, sponsored by the STEM Interest Group, to learn how to assist entrepreneurs to take their idea to the next level. The session will delve into the four types of intellectual property, give in-depth information about trademarks, and give state and local resources available for libraries, small businesses, and entrepreneurs. (An additional fee is required.)

Addressing Dysfunction & Incorporating Self-Care for Library Staff with Richard Moniz, Jo Henry, & Joseph Eshleman
Location: Blue Ridge Room

Concepts from the authors’ book, The Dysfunctional Library, will be the focus for the first half of the interactive session. Topics include workplace incivility, toxic behaviors, conflict, and weak leadership. The team will also introduce a variety of solutions to shape a positive and productive library work environment. The second half of the session will focus on concepts from the authors’ book, The Mindful Librarian. Participants will be introduced to the basic principles of mindfulness and discover the multitude of ways that mindful practice can improve the specific work librarians do, from reference services to workplace relationships to goal-setting and much more. Ideas for dealing with stress and burnout will be discussed and participants will receive multiple suggestions and resources to gain deeper knowledge on the topic in the future. (An additional fee is required.)

So you want to start a library podcast?

Attendees will learn about the podcasting process from what equipment can be used, selecting topics, editing recordings, and using a podcasting service such as Podbean.

Location: Spartanburg/Anderson
Presenter: Dr. Curtis R. Rogers, Communications Director, South Carolina State Library

Becoming the Entrepreneurial Librarian

How do you create entrepreneurial services without a business background? Join us as we discuss what we have learned through launching Richland Library’s Etsy Craft Entrepreneurship initiative, and other creative entrepreneurship pilot programs.

Location: Blue Ridge Room
Presenters: Kelsey Truluck, Arts and Media Assistant Manager, Richland Library; Jennifer Thompson, Studio Librarian, Richland Library

Decisions, Decisions, Decisions: Using Reviews to Enrich Your Library Collection

What are your favorite reviewing tools for collection development: Amazon, Booklist, CHOICE, LJ? How do you use them to make purchasing decisions? Reviews allow us to find out what’s new, and their content can influence the resources we select for our libraries. Come share your experiences with using reviews to build your collections.

Location: Haywood
Sponsor: SELA
Presenters: Camille McCutcheon, Assistant Dean, Coordinator of Collection Management, University of South Carolina Upstate; Jennifer Simmons, Youth Services Librarian, Anderson County Library

3:20 PM - 4:00 PM
Refreshment Break & Visits with Vendors
Location: Palmetto Ballroom

4:00 PM - 4:50 PM

It's Not Just Lunch: Developing an Innovative Peer Mentoring Program for Public Library Staff

In 2016, the SCPL Training Department began developing a unique peer mentoring program to immerse library paraprofessionals, as well as librarians, in the library’s work and organizational culture. This presentation will outline the research, planning, and execution of this mentoring program, as well as ideas for implementation in similar organizations.

Location: Laurens
Presenter: Jennifer Wright, Director of Planning & Training, Spartanburg County Public Libraries

Why You Should Be Posting To Social Media 10-15 Time A Day -- And How You Can

Popular social media theory for libraries and nonprofits suggests posting infrequently is an effective strategy. Presenter Sam Tyson, who spent more than a decade working as a digital journalist, will show why that thinking is inhibiting social growth and awareness of library programs through the successes of the CCPL website.

Location: Spartanburg/Anderson
Presenter: Sam Tyson; Charleston County Public Library

Build It and They Will Come: Using Online Newsletters to Enlighten Patrons

Research has shown the development and creation of an online newsletter can bring notice to a library, association or group that would otherwise not receive any notice from the community at large. The presenters both initiated online newsletters to promote the skills and resources available. During this session, they will share their experiences starting an online newsletter, the tools they used and challenges they encountered. Join Paula and Taylor as they help you decide if you need to start your own newsletter and how to make those challenging first steps.

Location: Blue Ridge Room
Sponsor: SELA
Presenters: Paula Webb, Outreach & Communications Librarian, University of South Alabama; Taylor Gaston Kirby, Access Services Humanities Librarian, Alabama State University

Librarians as Transformative Campus Partners: Leading a General Education Review Task Force

Lander University Director of Library Services LisaWiecki will present an exploration of how librarians’ status as equal service providers with neutral allegiances can facilitate their role as change agents in sensitive campus processes. Based on her experience as chair of the task force of faculty representatives from each of Lander’s six colleges as they created a new general education curriculum, the presentation will discuss the timeline, process and communication methods that led to a “yes” vote.

Location: Haywood
Presenter: Lisa Wiecki, Director of Library Services, Lander University

Presenter: Rebecca Antill, Youth Services Consultant, South Carolina State Library (moderator)

Library Advocacy: Public & State Advocacy
This 1st hour of a 3-hour session is for all interested in understanding Federal, State and local funding for library services. Attendees will learn about the financial impact of aid to public libraries, the SC Education Lottery, IMLS and LSTA funding, gain an overview of SCLA’s advocacy efforts and engage/share during open Q&A.

Location: Oconee/Pickens
Sponsor: SCLA Advocacy Committee
Presenter: Todd Stephens, County Librarian, Spartanburg County Public Libraries; Dwight McInvaill, Director, Georgetown County Library

Library Privacy 101
Library Privacy started with protecting our checkout records. These issues now range from laws covering student data to assisting patrons with information about how to keep their online information private. This session includes an overview of issues faced by libraries and resources for more information and training.

Location: Congaree
Presenter: Tucker Taylor, Head of Circulation, University of South Carolina

Digital Preservation on a Shoestring: Strategies for Born Digital and Digitized Collection
Panelists will discuss how to manage born digital materials and digitization projects on a shoestring budget. Topics will include basic workflows and best practices for digital preservation, how to plan for the preservation of your digitized collections, and tactics for building a (relatively) inexpensive digital forensics workstation.

Location: Orchard Park
Sponsor: SCLA Archives and Special Collections Round Table
Presenters: Joshua Minor, Manager of Archival Processing, College of Charleston; Heather Gilbert, Director, Lowcountry Digital Library, College of Charleston

People Analytics: Know Your People, Know Your Community
Library management is more than just managing a budget and inventory; it is managing people. The more you know about your people, the more you can make informed, accurate decisions that result in superior library services which meet users’ needs. Plan for your future by knowing and growing yours today.

The Ripple Effect of a New Service Point
When Cooper Library opened a multimedia production studio in October 2015 a brand new type of service point was created. This set in motion a series of ripples affecting staffing, technology, equipment, software, and spaces that are still being felt to this day.

Location: Congaree
Presenters: Kelsey Sheafer, Learning Technologies Librarian, Clemson University Libraries; Bobby Hollandsworth, Learning Commons Coordinator, Clemson University

Library as Beacon
Public libraries can be nimble in adjusting to community needs, whether in the realm of education, entrepreneurship, culture, or livability. Libraries are innovators that drive change. These case studies explore project-based learning in schools, a building designed to be a community beacon, and the benefit of culturally relevant pedagogy.

Location: Orchard Park
Sponsor: SELA
Presenters: Roberta Phillips, Director of Planning and Projects, Richland Library; Jennifer Charzewski, AIA, Principal, Liollio Architecture

Brighten Your Library Collection and Patron Services: Spotlight Your Print Circulation Versus eBook Usage Statistics
Learn how one academic library used eBook usage statistics to kick-start an effort to improve services for their faculty and student patrons. Comparisons of subject areas most accessed and the successes of effective collaborative partnerships that enhanced collection development practices will be discussed.

Location: Haywood
Presenters: Rachel Hooper, Head of Reference, Troy University Library; Jeff Simpson, Director, Troy University Montgomery Campus Library; Kelly Wilson, Social Sciences/Government Documents Librarian, Troy University Library; Jana Slay, Head of Technical Services/Acquisitions Librarian, Troy University Library

Location: Oconee/Pickens
Sponsor: SCLA Advocacy Committee
Presenter: Tamara Cox, Legislative Chair, South Carolina Association of School Libraries

Escape Room Basics
New library trends include finding new ways to engage students within the library in fun and exciting ways. One of the top trending crazes is library-sponsored escape rooms. This presentation will focus on my experiences with building escape rooms and the steps in order to produce high-traffic enthusiasm.

Location: Congaree
Presenter: Jalesia Horton, Access Services Librarian, Augusta University

A Walk in the Woods: Using an LMS to Manage and Foster Learning
Library staff need continual learning to keep pace with today’s rapid evolution of ideas and technology. Using the customizable, free LMS Moodle, we created a learning environment called the Woodlands. We’ll take you on a walk through the woods to demonstrate how we engage staff in our culture of learning.

Introducing InterCEPT: A groundbreaking web experience that helps customers discover, attend, and respond to your library programs

It's time to start checking in—your customers. With a grant from the Knight Foundation, Richland Library in Columbia teamed with Aten Design Group to create InterCEPT, a groundbreaking web experience that helps customers discover, attend, and respond to library programs. This open-source events calendar and room reservation system pairs events and circulation metadata with individual customer feedback to give personalized suggestions to customers looking for programs. This interactive demonstration will showcase the nuts and bolts of InterCEPT, showing how Richland Library is using its data to highlight programs and make informed decisions about the programs we offer. You’ll see how customers scan in at events and take a look at the feature-rich My Account. InterCEPT is available for any library to use, with a variety of implementation options for your particular community.

Third General Session & Awards Luncheon
Richard E. Ashby Jr. obtained his BA from the New York Institute of Technology and his MLIS degree from Queens College in New York. As a resident of Philadelphia, Ashby started an afterschool program to help the neighborhood youth called LiteracyNation. Under his leadership, Ashby later formed his afterschool program into LiteracyNation Inc., a non-profit organization that gives away hundreds of new and gently used books through community outreach. During the last five years as the Yeandon Public Library director, Ashby developed Café 3, a program that distributes approximately 250 lunches per week to children. In 2014, the Black Caucus of the American Library Association presented him with the Librarian of the Year Award, and in 2016, he received the Movers and Shakers Award. He serves his community spiritually as the co-pastor of Church of Christian Fellowship. One of his favorite sayings is “Our programming is diverse (enough) to meet all of the changes public libraries are undergoing — with literacy and justice for all.”
